DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 13-23, 25-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Munch.

Regarding claim 13, Munch discloses a weight sensing apparatus for vehicle seat with features of the claimed invention including a first and a second housing (elements 40 and 42), along with top and bottom force introducing surfaces, the housing formed as spring means (with the help of elements 58, 62, and 66), therefore, can move resiliently along a common axis, and sensor means (element 90) to measure the relative movement.

Regarding claim 14, due to the vertical non-symmetric shape of guide element (44 and 46), the housing can perform as different spring constant.

Regarding claim 15, the two housing themselves, are in same form and shape, therefore, naturally have the same spring constant.

Regarding claims 16-17, the guide member, can be considered as first and second spring levers and extend vertically.

Regarding claim 18, the sensor is along the moving axis.

Regarding claim 19, the axis have rotationally symmetric axis.

Regarding claims 20-21, the force introducing means are the housing surfaces so are integral with them.

Regarding claims 22-23, the system has stop or limiting means (elements 102, 104, 106 and 108), inside the housing

Regarding claim 25 the guide element can be considered as two halves.

Regarding claims 26-27, the sensor is inductive sensor with related core and coil (see figure 2).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claim 24 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Munch.

Munch does not elaborate on the nature of the connection of the stop means. However, such connection can be performed in variety of form and shape. Therefore, it would have been obvious for a skilled artisan at the time of the invention to modify Munch to integrally connect the stop means to the housing in order to provide for less parts and stronger connection. Because such arrangement is well within the level of an ordinary skilled artisan, suggested by convenience or a desired intended use.
